Folks, they're blowing the tops off of mountains to get at the coal. Umm...do you think you can turn your lights on with THAT kind of cost?

It's just not funny. Unless you find turning our "purple mountain majesties" into some kind of toxic mars-like landscape. A group is doing something about it, and you can help. Visit <http://ilovemountains.org/> and search around. Go there. Mostly, take on rGlohJahWans principles for your purchase decisions regarding electricity.

Power...on!
